I will call in and listen with one ear, but these calls recently have been growing a little repetitive and eating up a fair amount of time without much new value added.

It has been hard to engage because discussing the "position papers" is kind of out of context and a little late for the game.

I've been working on the comment-response document. The position papers seems like second tier work.

Should be. Please do participate as we will be discussing the basis for additional MMs, additional MMs vs MM for forestry and what are legal decisions vs policy decisions. We started the discussion last week but Christine and Jeff were unable to make that call.

Are there really going to be managers on the call for this one?

If not, I would be continuing to use the time on actual review and edits on the administrative record documents ... which I am obviously behind schedule on.
